European Journal for Crime, Criminal Law and Criminal Justice to Celebrate 25th Anniversary with Young Scholar Competition

2018 will mark the 25th anniversary of the European Journal for Crime, Criminal Law and Criminal Justice. This occasion will be celebrated by a conference which will take place on 25 January 2018 at Maastricht University. The programme for the conference will be announced shortly. As part of the celebration, the Editorial Board would like to encourage young scholars to submit articles to the Journal. Articles may cover any topic that falls within the broad spectrum of the aims and scope of the journal, which can be found at brill.com/eccl. At this site you will also find the Instructions to Authors, that contain a link to the site for submission of your contribution (editorialmanager.com/eccl). The best four articles will be published in the Journal and the authors will present their papers at the conference in Maastricht.

For the purpose of this competition, young scholars are those who have not yet reached the age of 35 at the deadline for submission on 1 September 2017. The European Journal for Crime, Criminal Law and Criminal Justice will cover the travel and accommodation costs for the four winners to participate at the conference. When submitting an article for the competition, please send an additional e-mail to Christopher Murphy (eu.journal@mpicc.de), the Journal's Managing Editor, notifying him of your intention to participate.
