

Promote your own book

Working with Brill to draw attention to your publication

Shari'a in Africa Today Reactions and Responses

John A. Chaworth, University of Birmingham, and Franz Kogelman, Bayreuth University

Action Code 9066 25% Discount*
until 31.12.2014

• November 2012
• ISBN 978 90 04 20524 3
• Hardback, iv + 242 pp.
• List price EUR 112 / US $ 156
• www.brill.com

Shari'a in Africa Today: Reactions and Responses explores how Islamic law has influenced relations between Muslims and Christians, through a series of case studies by young African scholars working in four African countries: in Sudan where total Shari'a was applied until recently; in Nigeria where the northern states introduced Shari'a courts; in Kenya where the place of Islamic courts has been centred in constitutional debates; in Tanzania where Muslims are calling for the re-introduction of Islamic courts. Each chapter is based on research carried out by the authors, topics include relations between Muslims and Christians; how Islamic law has impacted on women; new Islamic movements and the state. It is of importance to anyone interested in the impact of Shari'a in Africa today.

Readership: All interested in contemporary Islam, Muslim-Christian relations and on current public debate related to the practical implications of Islamic law in Africa south of the Sahara.

John Chaworth, PhD (2004), University of Birmingham, United Kingdom, is currently Research Officer for Christian-Muslim Relations: A Biographical History group at University of Birmingham. He has published on Christian-Muslim Relations in Africa, the use of the Quran and Bible in popular politics, and Islamic courts in East Africa.

Franz Kogelman, Dr. phil. (1997), Bayreuth University, Germany, is Academic Coordinator of the Institute of African Studies and Principal Investigator at the Youth International Graduate School (BIGS) at that University. He has published on Islamic endowments (waqf), Islamism in Egypt and Muslims in sub-Saharan Africa and in Europe.

*Valid till 31.12.2014 on orders placed directly with Brill by members of the press where this favour is distributed. No additional discounts apply.

Peter Van Elswwege is professor of European Union Law at Ghent University.

Stanley Adams is legal secretary at the EU General Court (Chambers of Judge Nicholas Fournol) and grant professional at the University of Ghent and Wrocław.

BRILL | NIJHOFF

The EU Essays

Edited by Ingrid
Peter Van Elswwege

The European Union in History of EU external relations

The book is dedicated to the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

The book is dedicated to
the 50th anniversary
of the Treaty of Rome.

Global and the

Tobias ten Brink

In Global and the State System Ten Brink is an understated system, its conflicts, and its transformation.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

In contrast to the political attractiveness of optimism, the theoretical approaches to globalisation, this book demonstrates how an analytical approach rooted in Global Political Economy (GPE) helps to explain both the tendencies towards integration and towards rivalry in international relations. By way of a historical reconstruction of different 'world order' phases in the twentieth century, Ten Brink analyses multiple, phase-specific variations of socio-economic and geopolitical conflicts that are significant for the modern capitalist world system.

Readership: All interested in international relations and international political economy, and anyone concerned with an analysis of rivalries in the global political economy.

Tobias ten Brink, Ph.D. (2007), is a senior researcher at Goethe University in Frankfurt. In addition to several monographs, such as China Kapitalismus, Staat und Welt (Frankfurt, 2003), he has published numerous articles on comparative capitalism, international relations and China.

Tobias ten Brink, Ph.D. (2007), is a senior researcher at Goethe University in Frankfurt. In addition to several monographs, such as China Kapitalismus, Staat und Welt (Frankfurt, 2003), he has published numerous articles on comparative capitalism, international relations and China.

Tobias ten Brink, Ph.D. (2007), is a senior researcher at Goethe University in Frankfurt. In addition to several monographs, such as China Kapitalismus, Staat und Welt (Frankfurt, 2003), he has published numerous articles on comparative capitalism, international relations and China.

Tobias ten Brink, Ph.D. (2007), is a senior researcher at Goethe University in Frankfurt. In addition to several monographs, such as China Kapitalismus, Staat und Welt (Frankfurt, 2003), he has published numerous articles on comparative capitalism, international relations and China.

Tobias ten Brink, Ph.D. (2007), is a senior researcher at Goethe University in Frankfurt. In addition to several monographs, such as China Kapitalismus, Staat und Welt (Frankfurt, 2003), he has published numerous articles on comparative capitalism, international relations and China.

What you can do

There are simple things you can do to make your book more visible to your students and colleagues. Here are a few quick tips:

1. Download a PDF flyer from brill.com in just one click Visit your book's webpage on brill.com and click on the "Print Flyer" option below the book description. A fully downloadable PDF flyer of your book will open. Then share your flyer with colleagues and friends, at a conference, via email, or anywhere else you like.

2. Link your book's webpage to your department website

Update your list of publications on your department website to include your newest book. Adding a hyperlink on your department website to the book's page on brill.com helps to increase the discoverability of your title.

How? Search engines like Google use a variety of criteria to best match search results to users' queries, including how many other websites link to that page. Each link acts like a citation, so the more external sites link to a webpage, the greater the chance it is a useful and credible source and the higher Google will rank that page in a list of search results. The credibility of the linked sites also increases the value of each link. Links from the New York Times, for example, are weighted more heavily than links from a less credible website. That means a link from your institutional website can impact how high your book appears in search results.

3. Mention your new book in relevant talks

Add a PowerPoint slide at the end of relevant talks to let the audience know about your new book. Ask your publishing contact for the cover file, or copy it directly from the Brill website. This way you can easily insert the cover image into your presentation.

About Brill

- Founded in 1683 in Leiden, the Netherlands, Brill is a leading international academic publisher in 20 main subject areas, including Middle East and Islamic Studies, Asian Studies, Classical Studies, History, Biblical and Religious Studies, Language & Linguistics, Biology, and International Law, among others.

- With offices in Leiden and Boston, Brill today publishes almost 200 journals and around 700 new books and reference works each year, available in both print and electronic form.

- Brill also markets a large number of primary source research collections and databases.

- The company's key customers are academic and research institutions, libraries, and scholars.

- Brill is a publicly traded company and is listed on Euronext Amsterdam NV.

- For further information please visit brill.com

4. Share a link to your book via social media

Are you active on social media? Why not post the link to your new book from brill.com through your Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Academia, listserv or any other social media account? Or how about creating a Facebook page for your book?

5. Add a link to your new book in your email signature

A simple link to your book on brill.com can help inform students and colleagues of your most recent publications. With very little effort, you can spread the word about your book with every email you send.

6. Look for organizations in your field that send large-volume emails

Try to get your book reviewed in their email or newsletter. Your publisher can help you send copies of your book for review, or a journal editor may request a review copy of your book via reviews@brill.com.

7. Create a personal website

Promote your research and publications with a simple personal website.

8. Wikipedia

Write a Wikipedia article about your scholarship or your subject specialization. Include all relevant published work with links. Many scholars already have a Wikipedia entry, so why not you!

Social Media

- To stay informed about Brill's publishing programs, subscribe to one of our newsletters: brill.com/email-newsletters.

- You can also follow us on Twitter or Facebook. To see an overview of our subject-related social media accounts, visit: brill.com/social.

Facebook.com/BrillPublishing

Twitter.com/BrillPublishing

YouTube.com/BrillPublishing

What Brill can do for you

As your publisher, Brill already promotes your book to the scholarly market in various ways, including book reviews, email newsletters, catalogs, advertising, and social media. Brill will immediately send offers for review copies to the journals in our review lists after your book is published. Journals may also request review copies via reviews@brill.com. Requests for review copies, unless in response to an offer made by the press, are at the acquisitions editor's discretion.

With your help, we can reach an even wider audience and further spread the word about your latest publication:

1. Conferences: Let us know about any important, relevant conferences in your field and we will try to send flyers and/or a display copy of your book to the organization. You can also indicate this in advance in our Authors Questionnaire, which you will receive from the publisher after acceptance of your manuscript.

2. Lectures: If you are giving a speech or lecture, let us know and we will advertise for you via our social media channels. This is a great opportunity to mention your book to a large audience of your peers.

3. Media: If you are mentioned in, or if you are publishing an article in a medium that is generally accessible—for example, an online newspaper, journal, newsletter, or radio interview—please let us know and we will advertise it on our social media channels. The same applies for reviews, nominations and awards.

Did you know

The marketing for your book begins before publication with a dedicated web page on brill.com, an announcement to trade partners and libraries in our Forthcoming Publications brochure, and inclusion in our subject-specific email newsletters and print catalogs. We also promote new publications via social media.

Once your book has been published, we make sure it is visible at relevant scholarly conferences.

We also facilitate reviews of your book in relevant publications shortly after it becomes available.

Other marketing activities can include advertising via trade partners and societies, video clips of our authors and editors in action (visit youtube.com/brillpublishing), and online demos of e-resources.

BRILL
P.O. Box 9000
2300 PA Leiden
The Netherlands
T +31 (0)71-53 53 500
F +31 (0)71-53 17 532
authors@brill.com

BRILL
153 Milk Street, Sixth Floor
Boston, MA 02109
USA
T 1-617-263-2323
F 1-617-263-2324
authors@brill.com

brill.com/authors